Testimonials

The EGI conference is the best place to connect with European research projects into cloud computing. All the diverse activities supported by EGI are represented. The conference is a friendly forum for learning and making connections.

Stig Telfer, CTO and co-founder, StackHPC

EGI 2024 brought together a wide community of researchers and innovators dedicated to shaping the future of scientific collaboration and data-intensive research. We appreciated the opportunity to showcase our platform at the event and look forward to seeing how EGI 2025 continues to foster innovation in this space.

Robert Bianchi, OiPub

Running the EuroScienceGateway booth at the EGI conference is always a fantastic experience – engaging with researchers and infrastructures providers, exchanging ideas on open science, and showcasing how the Galaxy project and EGI together can accelerate data-driven discoveries across Europe is always motivating and fun.

Sanjay Kumar Srikakulam, Scientific Researcher, Freiburg Galaxy Team (EuroScienceGateway)

EGI2024 was a great opportunity for EODC to connect with the research community, share insights on Earth observation and data processing, and explore new collaborations. It reinforced the importance of open science and advanced digital infrastructures, strengthening our commitment to cutting-edge EO data services. A big thanks to EGI for an inspiring and rewarding event!

Charis Chatzikyriakou, Project Manager, EODC

The conference was exceptionally well-organised, with a great exhibitor space, always-available staff support, and highly engaging sessions. Our participation allowed us to connect with many potential members of our community, making it a truly valuable experience for our project.

Luigi Colucci, Trust-IT Services Project Manager
